PRESENTS:

BREAKING THE CODE: THE NEW NYS CODES DEMYSTIFIED

This program will be conducted by Laura M. Cooney, AIA. Ms. Cooney has over 13 years of experience in architecture, project management, and code training. Her architectural experience consists of health care and commercial facilities and some residential projects. While she still practices architecture, her main focus is now codes.

As a code trainer, she has successfully designed and presented several programs covering code training for the transition to the new codes in NYS and NYC geared toward architects, engineers, interior designers, and landscape architects in NYS and NYC. She has also developed many custom courses for individual firms and organizations around the state.

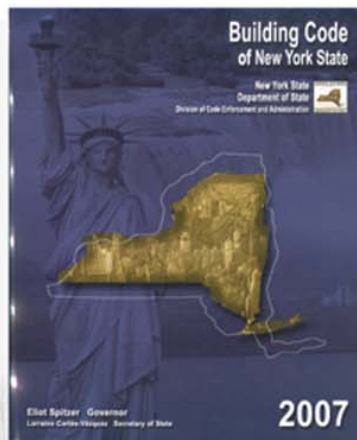

Laura is a NYS Certified Code Enforcement Officer as well. When not giving training programs, she also performs compliance reviews and provides design assistance to other design professionals. Laura is also the 2007 AIA Rochester Chapter President.
